Historical St. Louis newspapers offer interesting and colorful information about ancestors

Newspapers can provide amazing details about an ancestor's life, but research is difficult and time-consuming without indexes. St. Louis County Library makes the task easier by providing free access to historical newspaper databases and online indexes to several St. Louis newspapers that have not been digitized (see side bar on page 6).

As with any type of genealogical research, researchers should always consider what they might learn, and whether they are willing to learn it. This is a particularly important consideration when researching in newspapers. Newspaper editors hope their headlines and stories will sell the paper. While you might certainly find an article about the lovely vacation your great-great-grandparents took to the Adiron-dack Mountains, it is far more likely an article will involve something tawdry, scandalous, criminal, or tragic. If you are prepared to discover these sorts of things about your forebears, then newspapers can provide a rich source of information. The following transcriptions are examples of just some of the colorful discoveries that can be found .

A search of the name "Lugton" in the Historical St. Louis Post-Dispatch Database uncovered the lurid tale of how Joseph Lugton learned his wife was having an affair with his friend of twenty-two years.

V. P Den His Wife's Trysting Place, Husband Avers | J.T. Lugton Also Names Employer, Builder of Prophet's Floats, Correspondent |Men Friends 22 Years | Plaintiff Tells Judge Harper Settled Alienation Claim and He Gets Divorce

Joseph T. Lugton obtained a divorce in Judge Shield's court Tuesday from Louise Lugton, 3949 St. Ferdinand Avenue, to whom he was married 35 years ago. Lugton declared that his happiness was shattered through learning that his wife was interested in his employer and friend, John W. Harper, foreman at the Veiled Prophet Den, 2130 Walnut Street. Harper recently paid Lugton $1600 in compromise of a suit for alienation threatened by Lugton, the plaintiff told the Court.

Friends for Years

Lugton said he worked for Harper for 24 years as a designer and builder of floats for the Veiled Prophet's parade in St. Louis and similar parades elsewhere. Their long business relations had caused them to become close friends.

Mrs. Lugton's interest in Harper was revealed to her husband, he testified, through his finding a letter in an old waistcoat belonging to Harper in Portland, Ore. in 1907. According to Lugton, the waistcoat had been given to him by Harper to sell.

Found the Letter

"At my leisure," said the witness, "I went through the pockets to see if there was anything of value and found the letter. It began, "my darling sweetheart," and closed "from your true sweetheart, Lou."

Although I had never suspected my wife, I recognized it as her writing," he added.

Lugton returned to St. Louis and confronted Mrs. Lugton. He said she protested innocence. He, believing her, did not leave her. Nor were the cordial relations between him and Harper disturbed at that time, Lugton said.

Shadowed His Wife

Subsequently, Lugton's suspicions were aroused by something he had heard and he resolved to "shadow" his wife. He said he and John A. Smith followed her, and according to the testimony of both men, saw her enter the Veiled Prophet Den one night while Harper was there. Then the lights in the place were turned low, it was testified.

Mrs. Lugton did not resist the suit. [St. Louis Post-Dispatch, March 20, 1912, p. 9]

In as somewhat lighter vein, a search for the name "Lanhorr" in the same database yields this article published in 1914. Apparently, the widow of a civil war veteran was planning to use her next pension benefit to buy a gun to shoot her neighbor. Both women were in their 60s at the time.

Threatens to Buy Revolver to Shoot Her Woman Neighbor | Judge Cautions Woman Not to Do So—Lectures, Both Past 60, on Keeping Peace

Mrs. Mary Holgrave of Van Buren Street, testifying before Judge Hogan in Police Court today, said that when she drew her next pension money, she was going to buy a revolver and shoot her neighbor, Mrs. Ora Lanhorr of 8016 Polk Street. Mrs. Holtgrave is the widow of a Civil War Veteran and continues to draw his pension. The two women, both past 60, were in court on cross charges of disturbing each other's peace.

Lichtenberger vs. Ryan

Chronique Lecale.

Marie Lichtenberger et Lizzie Ryan, toutes deux veuves es lavandiéres, occupaient des chambres attenau tes au deuxième du numero 919 rue Coline. Lundi après-midi, après avoir bu un coup de trop, les deux amazones se disputerent, puis se battirent. La femme Ryan étant la plus forte, son adversaire voulut se sanyer en santant par la fenètre sur un hangar dont le toit était immédiatement en dessous. Au moment où la Lichtenberger sautait, la Ryan la poussa si violement qu'elle dépassa le bord du hangar et tomba à terre de tout son poids. Elle fut relevée sans connaissance et transportée à l'hôpital où elle mourut mardi soir de concussion du cerveau. Elle laisse deux petits enfants.

Le Patriote, Sept. 28, 1878, p. 1

This article in Le Patriote describes the fight between Marie Lichtenberger and Lizzie Ryan. During the fight, Mrs. Lichtenberger was pushed out the window to her death. You might not expect to find a German name like Lichtenberger in a French Language newspaper, but you never know.

A reference to the article was found in the Special Collections Department online Index to St. French Newspapers. An English translation of the article appears in the St. Louis Genealogical Society Quarterly, Vol. 5, No. 4 (Winter 2005), p.126.

Mrs. Lanhorr testified that Mrs. Holtgrave pinned insulting notes on the door of her house and called her names. Judge Hogan lectured the two women on living in peace with their neighbors and discharged them, after cautioning Mrs. Holtgrave not to buy any weapons with her pension money. [St. Louis Post-Dispatch Sept. 22, 1915, p. 1]

A search for the name "Lilienkamp" produced an interesting article in which Fred Lilienkamp, the proprietor of a grocery store, reported the night-time disappearances of chickens, cranberries, celery, and other Thanksgiving accessories. From the headline, you can discern the occupation of the thief. Fred Lilienkamp was Special Collections Department staff member Dan Lilienkamp's greatgrandfather.

Policeman Caught Taking Chicken at Night From Store | Albert H. Young Had Been Told to Watch Sharply There for Thief

Fred Lilienkamp, proprietor of the Carondelet Market, 7762 South Broadway, reported to the police several days ago that dressed chickens, cranberries, celery and other Thanksgiving accessories were mysteriously disappearing from his store at night.

Albert H. Young, patrolman on the beat at night, was told to keep a sharp lookout for the guilty party. Young reported he did so, but the chickens continued to disappear each night.

Last night, Sergt. Fred Schieffelbein, in charge of the precinct, decided to watch the market himself, unknown to Young. At 1:30 a.m., he saw a man coming out of the shop with a package under his arm. The Sergeant drew nearer, and recognized Young, who had been told to keep a sharp lookout for the person making away with the chickens.

Young looked startled. The Sergeant investigated. The package in Young's hand proved a nice dressed chicken. The patrolman told his Sergeant that he had taken it for Thanksgiving, having failed to purchase one during business hours, but said that he intended to pay Lilienkamp for the fowl.

Nevertheless, Patrolman Young was taken to the nearest police station and suspended. Lilienkamp said he would not prosecute. Young will have to stand trial before the Police Board. [St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Nov. 26, 1914, p. 1]

For a story describing more pleasant circumstances, a search of the name "Wuebbold" produced an article telling the story of three young men who organized an ice skating club in preparation for winter. Engraved portraits of each of the three appear in the article.

Organized a Skating Club | Young People in North St. Louis Ready for Winter | Red, White and Blue Skates | Written for the Sunday Post-Dispatch

The St. Louis Skating Club, the first of its kind ever formed in this city, was organized in North St. Louis on the 13th inst. The club includes young ladies, as well as gentlemen, and starts out with the healthy membership of twenty-four. Tom J. Lourence of 1508 Hebert Street, was elected President; Sam J. Clifford of 1313 Hebert Street,

Vice-President, and Otto L. Wuebbold of 1308 North Market Street, Secretary and Treasurer. Besides the officers, the following are the charter members of the new club: Misses Orlinda Thias, Jessie Floreth, Maud Washington, Lotta Cooper, Letta Cornwall, Eva Lourence, Mamie Ross, Florence Mullally, Sadie Grace and Messrs. John Beck, C. H.

Hitchcock, Nancy Harkins, Julius Thias, Richard Lourence, John O'Donnell, Richard Durnan, Thomas Clark and John Coffey. The club members will have the top of their skates painted red, with the runners striped in white and blue. They will also wear a button crossed with two skates in the middle and the name of the club over the top.

Although a North St. Louis organization, the club members expect to do most of their skating on the Post-Dispatch Lake in Forest Park. This magnificent body of water will give skating and other sports on ice a boom this winter if the weather does not interfere. Park commissioner Fechter and Supt. Callahan have made extra preparations to keep the lake in good shape for the skaters. The park department will keep the skaters informed as to when the lake is in condition for their sport, and precautions will be taken as usual to prevent skating when the ice is unsafe. The St. Louis Skating Club expects to give a series of races at Forest Park as soon as the lake receives a dose of zero weather. Skating races on the ice will be a novelty here, and they are sure to prove popular with lovers of outdoor sport in the winter.

Besides the lake at Forest Park, good ice skating can be had at Lafayette and Hyde Parks and the Fair Grounds. The lake at Lafayette Park is especially popular with the residents of the South Side. They throng there in great numbers during the skating season, as do also the West and North End people at Forest and Hyde Parks and at the Fair Grounds. Although they have had but little of it in recent years, ice skating has a firm hold on St. Louisans. This fact is not generally known because no organized effort to increase the interest in the sport has been made until this year. The promoters of the St. Louis Skating Club were overwhelmed with applications for membership when they first announced their plans, and the girls especially are eagerly awaiting the opening of the season. The club plan for promoting the interest in skating is certain to prove successful if the weather is cold enough for the sport for any length of time in the next two months. The new club is hoping for some opposition, so as to bring about a series of match races.

Heretofore, fancy skating has monopolized the local interest in the sport, but if the club plan proves successful, speed will be cultivated to a greater extent in the future. Jack Crooks, the baseball player, is one of the best skaters in St. Louis. Jack comes from St. Paul. At the Fair Grounds last winter, the attraction of the skating season was Crooks' cleverness on the ice.

Nothing approaching his fancy skating was ever seen there before. Skating is one of the most enjoyable of winter outdoor sports. The only drawback to it here is the lack of cold weather. The members of the St. Louis Club expect to indulge in roller skating when the weather won't permit them to glide over the ice. [St. Louis Post-Dispatch Dec. 30, 1894, p. 11]

Online indexes created by the Special Collections Department provide access to information that researchers might otherwise miss (a list of indexes in include in the sidebar on page 6). Searching for the name "Couzins" in the St. Louis County Watchman-Advocate every-name index will lead to an article about Phoebe W. Couzins being appointed U. S. Marshal. She was the first female marshal in St. Louis, and possibly the first in the country.

A Lady Marshal | Miss Phoebe W. Couzins | Recently Appointed U.S. Marshall

Justice Miller of the Supreme Court of the United States has appointed to the position of United States Marshal ad interim of one of the gentler sex, worthy and capable of occupying the office.

The appointment follows: It being made to appear to me, the Circuit Justice for the Eastern District of Missouri, that there is a vacancy in the office of Marshal of said district, which exigency of the public service requires to be filled: I therefore appoint Phoebe W. Couzins to be said Marshal to hold the office until an appointment is made by the President and the appointed is duly qualified and no longer.

Witness my hand as Circuit Justice of said district this 20th day of September 1887. Samuel F. Miller [St. Louis County Watchman-Advocate, 28 Oct 1887 p7. See Figure 6.]

REV. CAMPBELL INVITES LEAP YEAR PROPOSALS, SAYING HE IS TIRED OF BACHELOR LIFE.

The Carondelet News, a weekly newspaper from the extreme southern end of the City of St. Louis, is full of local news and gossip. A search of the index for "J. C. Campbell" locates an article with the headline "Negro Minister Wants To Wed." According to the paper, the Rev. J. C. Campbell was tired of being single and hoped a young lady would consider offering him a leap year proposal of marriage. Apparently his hopes did not materialize as the Special Collections staff found he was listed as single in the 1910 census.

Negro Minister Wants to Wed | Rev. Campbell Invites Leap Year Proposals, Saying He is Tired of Bachelor Life

Rev. J. C. Campbell, pastor of the A.M.E. Zion church, at 113 Eiler Street, has become tired of living the life of a lonely bachelor, and is ready to receive and consider any leap year proposals of marriage that the fair sex may feel disposed to shower upon him.

This is perhaps the first time that a minister ever resorted to such a method in order to choose a wife. Usually the men of the cloth are at a loss to choose the one most fitted for being a minster's wife, as they generally have many favorable opportunities to choose anyone that he pleases, for in a church, there are many women who are willing to prepare the meals for a man who devotes his life to the spiritual welfare of his fellow beings.

Judging from the steps taken by Rev. Campbell, the fair sex of his congregation have not been bothering him with their show of worldly love, their zeal in the church work being clearly of a religious nature, and none have been able to get him to propose marriage to them. Perhaps he is bashful, and the young women of his flock have been waiting for him to give them encouragement.

Well, no matter where the fault lies, Rev. Campbell has placed himself in the list of eligibles, as the following few lines, received at the News office Monday morning will show: "Bachelor wanting a wife. This being Leap Year, ladies leap towards J. C. Campbell. Must have one this year. Anxious. Address: 113 Eiler Street; phone, South 1055."

At first we were inclined to think some person was trying to play a joke on Rev. Campbell, so to satisfy ourselves, we called him up over the phone, and sure enough, he said the invitation was genuine, as he is becoming tired of doing his own housework and cooking. He is 35, and some women who attend his church say he is very good looking and that he will no doubt make some good woman a good husband. [Carondelet News, Feb 1, 1908, p. 1]

The index also points to a sad article about Margaret Mavis who was found wandering the streets, cold, ill, and penniless. Too ill to work and abandoned by her relatives.

Woman is Found Penniless

St. Louis–Cold, ill and penniless, Mrs. Margaret Mavis, 28 years old, was found near Compton and Chouteau avenues, and sent to the city hospital, from which she was discharged Dec. 23. She said she had been too ill to work since she left the institution and that relatives in North St. Louis refused to care for her longer. She is separated from her husband. [Carondelet News, Feb 1, 1908, p. 2]

Finally, searching the name Utz in the Carondelet News index will locate the story of the remarriage of Chas. and Grace Utz, just three weeks after the court granted their divorce.

Divorced Couple Married

Mrs. Grace C. Utz, of 611 Louisa Avenue, Luxemburg, and her former husband, Chas. Utz, of 11533 South Seventh Street, were married at Clayton Tuesday. She secured a divorce from him in the Circuit Court at Clayton, January 22, 1908, on grounds of cruelty. After three weeks of single blessedness, the couple met, and decided that the divorce had been a mistake, and for the sake of their children, they decided to be married again, and try to live together in harmony. They will live at Luxemburg. [Carondelet News, Feb 15, 1908, p.1]

Newspapers can be a rich source for information about our families. Indexing efforts by the Special Collections Department, and electronic databases offered by St. Louis County Library make finding articles easier than ever.

Finding Italian immigrants in St. Louis church records

The earliest Roman Catholic Church serving Italians was St. Bonaventure, located at 6th & Spruce Streets, founded in 1871 and closed in 1883.

After St. Bonaventure closed, Father John Long and Monsignor F.G. Holweck, both of whom studied in Rome, became religious leaders in the Italian community. Records for St. Louis Italians during this period might be found at the churches where these priests were assigned, including St. Augustine's, St. John's, and St. Patrick's.

By 1900, Italian immigrants began moving into the neighborhood now known as "The Hill" to work in the clay mines and as fruit vendors and grocers. As a consequence, some Italian records can be found at St. Aloysius Gonzaga, an otherwise predominantly German parish formerly located on North Magnolia Avenue.

In 1900, two specifically Italian churches were founded: St. Charles Borromeo, at 29th and Locust, and Our Lady Help of Christians, at 10th and Wash Streets.

St. Ambrose, located at Wilson and Marconi Avenues on The Hill, was founded in 1903.

Asked how the Missouri State Penitentiary compared to other famous prisons, a historian and former prison administrator replied, "It's older and meaner." For 168 years, it was everything other prisons were and more. In The Missouri State Penitentiary, Jamie Pamela Rasmussen recounts the long and fascinating history of the place, focusing on the stories of inmates and the struggles by prison officials to provide opportunities for reform while keeping costs down. Tales of prominent prisoners, including Pretty Boy Floyd, Sonny Liston, and James Earl Ray, provide intrigue and insight into the institution's infamous reputation. (From the book jacket.)
