LOCAL HISTORY

German Methodists in St. Louis

The following was translated from “Jubiläumsbuch der St. Louis Deutschen Konferenz herausgegeben nach ihrer Anordnung zur Feier ihres fünfundzwanzigjährigen Bestands” [Anniversary Book of the St. Louis German Conference Published at Its Behest for the Celebration of Its 25 Years of Existence] by E.C. Magaret, Friedrich Mung, and Geo. B. Addicks (Cincinnati: Jennings and Graham, [1906], pp. 342–344, R 287.6 J91)

Carondelet

Zions Church in south St. Louis (Carondelet) is the youngest mission of our German church in St. Louis. In 1890, a number of families moved from the Eighth Street Church, now Memorial Church, to south St. Louis. Brother H. Naumann visited them from time to time to preach the Gospel, at first in home of Father John Knaup, lay preacher [Lokal Prediger], until a small congregation of new members was gathered and the property of an old English-speaking Methodist church at Pennsylvania and Upton Ave. secured for $1300 through the help of the City Mission Society [Stadt-Missions-Gesellschaft]. Brother C.W. Heßler took over as the first preacher for this young congregation in the fall of 1891. He was followed by Brother Georg Röder, who served the congregation for a year. Under the five-year administration of his successor, Brother H. Schlüter, a new building lot was obtained for $1500 in 1896 and the present church built in 1897 at a cost of $10,000. A fine parsonage was also constructed for $2500. Brother C.C. Stahlmann served for three years after Brother H. Schlüter. Brother W. Schönig is now active in his third year. The congregation currently counts 76 members, maintains a Sunday school of 70 pupils supervised by Brother G. Wildberger, a youth league [Jugendbund] with 84 members presided over by Brother J. Jungmann, and 25-member strong women’s society [Frauenverein], whose president is Sister Maria Schönig. Officers of the congregation are: Rev. Chas. Rodenberg, retired preacher; Brother John Knaup, local preacher, Gustav Wildberger, Lay speaker [Ermahner]. Wardens [Verwalter]: F.W. Buhrmester, C. Götz, G. Wildberger, W. Heinicke, W. Hinze, F. Paul, J. Knaup and J. Jungmann. Trustees: E. Götz, J. Knaup, W. Hinze, J. Heckel, Fr. Riefle, Fr. Burchardt, C. Bruckner and W. Schleyßer.

The preacher of the congregation, William Schönig, was born on May 5, 1852 in the beautiful village of Sarau near Ahrensböck, three miles northwest of Lübeck, Hollstein. The son of Lutheran parents, he was baptized, raised and confirmed in the state church. At the age of 18, he came to this country and initially found employment among relatives and friends in the area of Davenport, Iowa and later Muscatine, Iowa. In February 1872, he was converted to God at a gathering under the work of Brother J.G. Leist and united on August 17 that same year with the Methodist Church. In June 1878 he obtained his lay speaker's license and not long afterwards his lay preacher's license. He was sent as assistant to Brother Fr. Unland to Swan Creek, Neb. in September 1878. After lengthy study at the German college in Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, he was sent to Geneseo, Ill. to fill the vacancy left by the death of the preacher there and worked blessings until fall 1876. The following autumn he went to Burlington, Iowa, in what was then the Southwest German Conference. He was ordained as a deacon according to mission rules by Bishop J.T. Peck in Quincy, Ill. on September 16, 1877 and ordained elder two years later by Bishop E.G. Andrews in San Jose, Ill. He served the St. Louis German Conference as preacher in the following fields: Dodgeville, Iowa, 1876–1877; Arenzville, Ill., 1877–1880; Meredosia and Perry, Ill., 1880–1881; Decatur, Ill, 1881–1884; Belleville, Ill., 1884–1886; Canton, Mo., 1886–1889; Warsaw, Ill, 1889–1892; Davenport, Iowa, 1892–1897; Burlington, Iowa, 1897 until 1900, and since then to the present at Carondelet, St. Louis, Mo. As a faithful witness to Jesus Christ, he has enjoyed the succor and blessing of God and looks forward to the hope of eternal life.

DELVING INTO DEWEY

Languages, Natural Sciences and Mathematics

Continuing our series on the Dewey Decimal System, this month's article features the 400s and 500s emphasizing books on St. Louis or useful to St. Louis research but not catalogued in the 900s (History).

400s: Language

Unless your ancestors all came from English-speaking countries, you will want to become familiar with the 400s where you will find bilingual dictionaries. You will need these to translate important documents, such as church records and obituaries and articles from the St. Louis foreign language press. The Special Collections Department has bilingual dictionaries for immigrant groups that came to St. Louis in the greatest numbers, such as the Germans, French, Italians, Czechs and Poles, as well as those who came in lesser numbers to our area, such as the Dutch, Swedish and Slovaks. In some cases, more than one dictionary is available, so if you do not find the word you PastPorts is published monthly by the St. Louis County Library Special Collections Department, located on Tier 5 of the Headquarters location.

Tours

Tours of the Special Collections Department are conducted on the first Wednesday and third Saturday of the month at 10:30 a.m. No registration is required. Group tours are gladly arranged with advance notice by calling the Special Collections Department at 314-994-3300, ext. 2070.

want in one dictionary, check another. Of special interest to early St. Louis French families is John Francis McDermott's Glossary of Mississippi Valley French, 1673-1850 (R 447.9 M134G), which includes words and phrases unique to the French dialect spoken in this area.

500s: Natural Sciences and Mathematics

Was your St. Louis ancestor a scientist or someone interested in the sciences? If so, he or she may have belonged to the Academy of Science of St. Louis. Even young people could belong following the creation in 1936 of the Junior Academy of Science. The Academy of Science of St. Louis, 1856-1888 (R 505 H526A), recounts the fascinating history of this organization from its earliest days meeting in the east wing of the O'Fallon Dispensary building at the St. Louis Medical College to its spacious current locations in Forest Park and directly south of the park adjacent to I-64 / U.S. 40.

Next month: the 600s and 700s.

MICROFILM GEMS

ProQuest Digital Microfilm

The ProQuest Digital Microfilm database, now available through St. Louis County Library, allows researchers to access images of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the New York Times from 2008 to up to three months before the current date. The three month lag exists between the newspapers' publication and availability of the digital images because the digital images come from microfilm, which the vendor makes available three months after the newspaper's publication date. Although another library database, St. Louis Post-Dispatch [NewsBank], provides access to text, it omits photographs and other images. The ProQuest database provides digitized images of actual newspaper issues, including all graphic elements.

Accessing the database

The database can be used for free at any St. Louis County Library location. It can also be accessed at home or other remote location with a valid St. Louis County Library card held by residents living in the St. Louis metropolitan area. The login screen will ask for you last name, library card number, and pin number.

The link to the ProQuest Digital Microfilm database is located numerous places on the library's website:

- From the Special Collections "Genealogy & Local History Resources" webpage <<http://www.slcl.org/genealogy-and-local-history/databases-and-websites>> .
- From the library's homepage. Clicking on the "Research" tab leads to a table of subject guides <<http://www.slcl.org/research>>. The following subjects include a link to "ProQuest Digital Microfilm": "News, Sports & Weather" <<http://www.slcl.org/research/subject/670>>, "History & Genealogy" <<http://www.slcl.org/research/subject/506>>, and "Databases A-Z." <<http://www.slcl.org/research/databases-a-z>>

You can also search the library's website by clicking on the yellow tab marked "site" that appears in the upper right hand corner of every webpage. Enter the words "ProQuest Digital Microfilm" in the white search box above the tab and then click on the "search" button beside it.

Using the database

ProQuest Digital Microfilm offers digitized images of newspaper pages only and is not searchable. Using the database is easier to use if you first know a date, and if possible, a section, and page number. The alternative is to select a date, begin with page one, and proceed to read the paper, page by page. Viewing a newspaper image in this database

Click on the hyperlinked word “Select” above the first dialogue box.

A box will appear showing the available newspapers. Click on the newspaper of choice to select one and it will automatically appear in the first dialogue box.

As the written directions on the screen tell you “Once you have selected a title, use the year, month, day and page drop down lists to view a page of a specific edition.” After each selection, be sure that you wait until the screen regenerates before proceeding.

When the newspaper title, year, month, and day have been selected, “A1” will automatically appear in the “page” entry box. The window will expand to include four new area options indicated with red arrows in figure 2. To select a different page or even a different issue, go back and make different choices in the drop down lists just described.

Viewing Options

Understanding the various options enables you to make the best use of this database.

- Page image: An image of the selected page appears in PDF format. How your Internet browser handles PDF images will determine your ability to magnify, copy, print, or save the page.

■ Thumbnails: A navigational filmstrip of a series of small images of pages appears along the bottom of the window. A green border around one of the thumbnails indicates the page currently enlarged in the viewer.

■ Image Adjustment: Slider bars enable the viewer to change the brightness and or contrast of the page currently being viewed. After moving one of the slider bars, click on the “Adjust Image” red button to actually make the change. Working with this feature will improve the quality of printed photos.

■ Scroll Thumbnails: This allows the user to navigate the thumbnails one, ten, or fifty images at a time.

While the database offers the option of emailing a copy or link, saving the image first and then emailing it as an attachment may be the most effective method.

Search Tips

As mention earlier, the database is not searchable, so determine the date you need beforehand. Researchers using the St. Louis Post-Dispatch will find help from another library database, St. Louis Post-Dispatch [NewsBank], which is searchable and provides full text of articles from 1988 to the present. Because the range of years covered by St. Louis Post-Dispatch [NewsBank], (1988 – current) includes the date range covered by ProQuest Digital Microfilm (2008 – to three months before current date), use the NewsBank search feature to locate an article. The citation at the end of the article will list the section and page number which will allow you to locate the print version in ProQuest Digital Microfilm.

If you are looking in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch for an obituary, be aware that funeral announcements or notices are actually paid advertisements. NewsBank always included obituaries of prominent people written by newspaper staff in its database, but did not start including paid funeral announcements until 1999.

If you are looking for obituaries or funeral announcements and don't have a page number, check on the front page or page two of the newspaper for a small index telling where various features of the paper can be found. “Obituaries” should be listed.

An old saying is that “a picture is worth a thousand words.” That explains why using this database to discover a photo, that might be with a printed article, obituary, or funeral advertisement, is well worth the effort. Online access to microfilmed versions of the New York Times and St. Louis Post Dispatch allows the user to retrieve, view, print and email digitized images from ProQuest microfilm.

WEB NEWS

New at Ancestry

■ San Diego, California, Airplane Passenger and Crew List Arrivals, 1929-1954 | This database features an index to passenger and crew lists of airplanes arriving at San Diego, California between 1929 and 1954. In addition, the names found in the index are linked to actual images of the passenger and crew lists, copied from the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) microfilm (see Source Information for specific series and roll information). The type of information that is generally available in this database includes name, age, birth date, birthplace, gender, ethnicity / nationality, last residence, vessel or airline name, port of departure, port of arrival, and date of arrival. The database may be searched using most of these data items. Additional information about an individual may be recorded on the original document and obtained by viewing the corresponding image. The lists are arranged chronologically and may be browsed by date.

■ Arkansas, Naturalization Records, 1907-1968 and New York Naturalization Records, 1897-1944 | Naturalization records may include name, native country, date of naturalization, residence, occupation, birth date, date and place of arrival in the U.S., and children's names.

■ Tennessee, City Birth Records, 1881-1915 | This database contains a collection of various birth records for Nashville, Knoxville, and Chattanooga. The collection does not include records for all years in each city. Most of the records are registers, which typically list the following:

name, birth date and place, gender, father's name and mother's name. Some registers also include race, residence, occupation (father), and birthplace for parent, so it is well worth checking the original image. The database also includes some birth certificates from Nashville and Knoxville in the early 1900s, which can contain additional details.

■ Tennessee, City Death Records, 1872-1923 | A collection of birth records for Nashville, Knoxville, and Chattanooga. Statewide registration began in 1908, with a statewide law passed in 1914. Prior to 1914, registration was sometimes done on the county or city level. Information contained in this database includes name of deceased, death place and date, gender, birth date and place, age at time of death, father's name and birth place, and mother's name and birth place. Images in this collection are comprised of registers of deaths in a city, obituaries from newspapers, and individual death certificates.

■ Alabama, Marriages, Deaths, Wills, Court, and Other Records, 1784-1920 | The index cards reproduced in this database make up an index to all corporate entities, people, and subjects referenced in the Alabama Department of Archives and History (ADAH) holdings until about 1960. They typically provide a name, event date, and original source. The cards include references to births, marriages, deaths and burials, wills, court records, and, according to the ADAH's description, "occupation, land ownership, sureties, registered voters, petitions, interments, plaintiffs and defendants, and other pertinent biographical and family information." Only cards containing the names of people have been indexed for this database, but all cards are included and may be browsed. Cards without personal names relate to businesses, schools, churches, companies, railroads, and other entities in the state.

■ Romania, Jewish Family Questionnaires, 1945 | Includes details extracted from questionnaires distributed by the World Jewish Congress in Romania in the spring, summer, or fall of 1945. The questionnaires were 16 pages long and queried families about the head of household and associated family members. The majority of the details included in this database come from a cover sheet associated with each questionnaire or packet of information about a family.

Data on heads of household typically includes name, address, date and place of birth, occupation and education. Data on other family members may consist of name, relationship to head of household, year of birth and occupation. Additional information—including details on education, deportation, "probable fate," and place of death—may be available on the original documents. The records are in Romanian. Images of records are not available on the database. Copies of the documents can be ordered at no cost from the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum.

■ European Immigrants to USA Arriving at Vera Cruz, Mexico, 1921-1931 | An index to and images of records created by the United States government and relating to immigrants coming to the U.S. aboard ships that docked in Vera Cruz, Mexico. Documents include lists of passengers aboard ships that arrived 1921–1923 and correspondence dating from March 1921 through February 1931. Information may include name, age at arrival, nationality, arrival date, ship name, and place of arrival. Some of the lists included in the database were carbon copies of originals and can be difficult to read.

Quick Reference to Kansas: Lost—Found—Missing Towns and Places With Selected Trivia and Truths by Melvin D. Bruntzel

Topeka, Kan.: Melvin D. Bruntzel, 2010. 3 vols.
Call no. R 978.1 B911Q

Ten years in the making, this monumental work is a goldmine of historical information covering every Kansas County. Each county is treated separately, with introductory information including date established, county seat, brief history, and a list of townships, including historic townships no longer in existence. Following this is a listing of every known place name with a brief history, if known, and a bibliography of published and original sources. Vol. 3 is an index, and a general bibliography is included at the end of Vol. 2. Mr. Bruntzel's industry has produced a great gift to historians and genealogists researching Kansas, and the volumes serve as an example for those who might want to accomplish the same for other states.
